

WHAT WOULD MAKE THIS JOB WORTHWHILE FOR ME?

I know a guy who can give me a reception job that pays $20 an hour right here in Jonesboro, AR. Money is a constraint not an objective. I am only looking for two things in this job...

The number one thing I need is to work with other "A" players - you know other smart and ambitious people. I know I'm young, but don't underestimate me. I learn very fast given an interesting enough problem.

Having an interesting and challenging problem to solve is the second thing I must have. Don't be afraid to throw me into something that is over my head. My ability to dig around and figure things out is my best quality. It is the sole reason I coined the term adaptomaniac.

Maybe the role I'm applying for isn't the best for me. Are there any other roles that would be better suited for me?

Do you need more information? Just give me a call or shoot an email :)

Interested, but you don't have a job for me right now? Reach out and let me know you thought I could be useful to you or your company in the future. This way I can keep an eye out for you down the road!
